Methods of Bible Study

1. The question raised in the presentation was, ‘Are you at peace with and satisfied by your personal bible-study habits and the spiritual progress you are making as a result?’ Care to have some time opening up on this? What makes it so? What are your questions and/or is your advice to fellow members of this discussion group?
2. Easy, immediate access to the bible – with all kinds of tools to aid in reading and studying it – is a very recent phenomenon in the history of Christianity. You do believe that this access has made for a stronger, better informed generation of Christians than ever before? Why or why might this not be so? What does your answer in fact demonstrate about bible study?

Study Group Questions

5. Compare and contrast personal bible study with that of group study. What are the relative merits of these approaches? Should we prioritize one over the other?

6. I am told that today’s ‘under 40s’ read much less than my generation did. They prefer ‘pod-casts’. Discuss what the practices in your group are. What are your conclusions? What could and should be done to address this?
7. For those of you without a partner – what merit is there is setting up a ‘buddy-system’ in which you hold each other accountable for your private devotions/quiet time?
8. Do you see merit in simple, extended reading of the Bible (eg an entire book) in a single session? Why or why not? How much more urgent is this point in this day and age?
9. Introduce, compare and discuss the various devotional/theological/ study material you are using (or think others should be using) in your quiet time or small group discussions.
